U. S. Cruiser Sails

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 .- The cruiser Pittsburgh, flagship of Vice-Admiral Long, in command of American naval forces in European waters, has left Gibraltar for Constantinople, "for eventualities," the Navy Department announced to-day.

The Pittsburgh is expected to arrive within four days and remain indefinitely. Admiral Long, who is on board, recently transferred his flag to the Pittsburgh from the battleship Utah, and it was expected that he would in the course of events proceed to Constantinople and thence to various other European ports. The renewed crisis in the Near East, however, caused the Navy Department to issue orders for Admiral Long to proceed at once.

What State Depends Upon

There is the affidavit of Mrs. Barnhart testifying to the conversation with the sister, Mrs. Mills, in which the choir singer told of her disquieting conversation with Mrs. Hall, when the rector's widow is alleged to have said: "Mrs. Mills, you are making my life very unhappy." Mrs. Barnhart lives at 566 East Thirty-eighth Street, in Paterson, N. J. Pictures of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills and a few letters exchanged by the lovers, and which the sexton's wife cherished deeply, were taken to Mrs. Barnhart by Charlotte Mills, the singer's daughter, soon after the bodies were discovered.

There are other witnesses, it was said to-night, who are prepared to swear that Mrs. Hall was seen driving her automobile near the Phillips farm two weeks before the murder. Mrs. Hall has said recently that she had not been around the Phillips place since she was a girl. Then there are Mrs. Mills's letters, found strewn over the bodies, and letters and a diary written by the clergyman for the eyes of his "gypsy queen," his "wonder heart," his "babykins," the rather drab little woman that the congregation knew as the sexton's wife.
